🎯 Objective of the Analysis

The goal of this analysis is to explore health insurance data to uncover patterns and factors influencing insurance claims, customer demographics, health risks, and costs. By analyzing attributes such as age, gender, BMI, smoking status, number of children, and region, this study aims to assist insurance providers in better understanding their customer base, identifying risk factors, and improving pricing strategies, fraud detection, and customer segmentation.